

News for the Pews

"Caleb is one of those grateful guests who does everything he needs to do and if asked to do anything extra, he does so without hesitation or complaining," says Roland, men's shelter director.

Not expecting anything more than a roof over his head and some food to eat, Caleb found the courage to come to the Mission and ask for help when he needed it. "I was angry and suicidal. I was skeptical whether I could really get help. I hit rock bottom and struggled admitting defeat. I was always the strong one but found myself beaten down," admits Caleb.

Caleb lost everything; his job, home, wife and children. It only took about a week at the Mission for Caleb to notice a difference. "Caleb reflects, "I found more than food and a roof. I found a wealth of compassion."
